

DECORATION DAY AT MT. GLENWOOD CEMETERY

Sunday, May 30th, Decoration Day was observed in the usual manner at Mount Glenwood Cemetery. The special train was crowded with people who had planned weeks before to go out and decorate the graves of their beloved ones. This cemetery, which was established only a few years ago, has improved wonderfully and can now be ranked with any cemetery in the city. After the decoration of the graves, addresses were made by several prominent men and several ladies sang solos. Mr. R. J. B. Ellington, who was recently taken into the association, said in his address that plans were under way whereby the full supervision of the cemetery would be under the control of the association. One improvement since last Decoration Day is the vault on the south end of the cemetery, which is nearing completion. Many were they who gave a last sad look as the train pulled away from the "Silent City of the Dead."
